THE GRAYSON COAL MINES .- We publish to-day aty. The writer briefly alludes to the advantages bonds issued by the company itself, and might make which would accrue to the city of Louisville, as well as to the county of Grayson, by the development of the mineral resources which constitute a vast wealth buried beneath the poor and unproductive soil of that region. There is no doubt that Grayson must depend chiefly upon her rich minerals, and it is now very evident that the interests of Louisville would be very materially promoted by their development.

We regard these bonds, and we believe the productions of the company in payment for subscriptions. materially promoted by their development.

The high price of coal for two years past, and the universal want of fuel during the recent severe weather, have forced apout the public mind the conviction that Louisville must have a railroad to the nearest coal mines.

The high price of the estimates and statements of assets, that the subscription is amply sufficient to complete the grading of the whole line of road, and when it is evident that the road, when completed, will pay a very handsome profit on its cost.

But even if wary capitalists were unwilling to problem, and the face of the estimates and statements of assets, that the subscription is amply sufficient to complete the grading of the whole line of road, and when it is evident that the road, when complete the grading of the whole line of road, and when it is evident that the road, when completed, will pay a very handsome profit on its cost. have a railroad to the nearest coal mines.

We have bestowed upon the letter our best atten-tion, and we have arrived at the conclusion that the scheme is warmstitutional, temperatedale, contempt to the first principles of political comment, and leading direct to diameter.

If this is a fair indication of the sort of scrutiny with which extreme Southern men look into the vagaries of Senator Toomba, he might, we think, as pation's gone. The South has no use for him. He had better emigrate to Nicaragus. He has a more business here than a but has in the sunlight,

Is not by their aid that cities are built, that railroad and telegraphs are spread like a net work over the land, and that vast entarprises of public utility are carried out. It is no argument against the utilit The Daily Journal has much the and profitableness of any public undertaking that the wealthy landholders have not engaged in it. Were we to wait for them to come forward as a class we also described the country of any other

We think our correspondent is mistaken in the reason he assigns for the slow sale of the bonds which constitute the assets of the Louisville and Nashville Company. The absence of individual ambscriptions might depreciate the value of the eapitalists cautious as to the purchase of them, but the argument does not apply to the securities

Whatever may be the in debtedness of the city of Louisville and the counties which have issued these bonds, their payment principal and interest, is amply secured. They are beyond the reach of any popular caprice or of any had faith on the part of the municipal and county They commenced building the road, which will in time be completed, but still relied upon the Ohio for their coul.

Although economy continually suggested other arrangements for fuel, instead of buying coal of Pennsylania and Virginias, to come down on the first rise in the Ohio, if there should be one that would last long enough to finat coal barges from Pittsburg to Louisville, they have been deaf to all the appeals of economy, and have waited nntil actual suffering authorities. There are deposits of coal to the north, east, and to the southwest of this city, within such a distance as to admit its transportation and delivery in Louisville at all seasons of the year and at an average proce less than that actually paid by our citizens. Several of those deposits may be reached by railroads eightly or ninety miles in length, and the time is not far distant when we hope to see railroads constructed through all of them, but one of them and, in this respect, the Louisville and Nashville liailroad extends to its boud-holders, or the purchasers of its securities, more ample protection perhasers of its securities, more ample protection perhasers. of works of internal improvement, unless there

The city and county subscriptions have not been workable veins quite easy of access. It is not only quite as near to Louisville as any other, but can be reached within much shorter time than any other and with insuitely less cost. The fifteen miles of williand forms the line of the Navalla made with proprietors, but the whole taxpaying committeed for the Navalla made with the same of the sam and with invinitely less cost. The fifteen miles of railroad from the line of the Nashville road to this coal field will cost probably, when completed and equipped, $450,000. The most careful calculations show that this coal can then be delivered to the company, and long before the maturity of the principal show that this coal can then be delivered to the con-numers in Louisville at 12% comts per bushel, and thus secured the whole management will be confided to a directory chosen altogether by individual stocknumers in Louisville at 12½ conts per bushet, and consumers may obtain supplies as they are needed, avoiding the necessity at present imposed of making large purchases upon the arrival of the ocal fleets to sell these securities. The nations rough whose countries the Nile serpentined its long very grazed and admired, as the precious deluge rolling, a miracle not less in retiring than in its along, a miracle not less in retiring than in its mine. What a nurse this occurrence of Eastern may and superstition, while the water was regardance of unch another than the should be tempted to turn away on Paradise itself, if he could ever bathe his lips its tide!

declared that he should be tempted to turn away from Paradise itself, if he could ever bathe his lips in its tide!

The last expedition to discover the sources of the Nile was sent by Mehemet Ali, the enlightened and energetic Vicerov of Egypt, and occupied the years 1841, 1812, and 1843. The expedition penetrated to the 4th degree of north latitude. All along this immense distance of more than 3,000 miles which the Nile had been traced, it presented the same unvarying aspect as in Upper Egypt und Soudan. A mighty stream was rolling onwards, and yet unfed by rains and without any discovered source, und seemingly to gush out from the earth's immes heart and under the earth's cquator. Disheartened by unsuccessful labor, though prolonged to nearly three years, the object they pursued fleeing before them like an tynts future they pursued fleeing before them like an tynts future they pursued fleeing before them like an tynts future they pursued fleeing before them like an tynts future they pursued fleeing before them like an tynts future they have given accounts of their adventures of greater or less extent, from which many interesting facts may be gathered.

The present expedition is organized in the wisest amount of information of all kinds. Like the last expedition, it will be protected by an armed force of 300 men, furnished by the Egyptian government; a Franch engineer, who made a part of the last expedition, and also a brother of the French Consultience and Egypt, will accompany the present expedition, and also a brother of the French Consultience and the principal departments of science will be represented by competent men. The expedition will be under the command of Count of Excavae de Lauture, who for a long time has been acquainted with a part of the count of Experiment of the inhabitants. It has made many journeys into Soudan, and published the results of his observations in u highly interesting for a country. See the country blick is to be traversed, both in regard to the clumt of the country blick of th journeys into Soudan, and jublished the results of his observations in a highly interesting work. Second In command is Mr. Aubaret, a knight of the Legion of Honor, a distinguished officer in the Freuch navy, and formerly aid-de-caup of Admiral Hamelin in the Black Sea squadron.

The members of the expedition entrusted with the different departments of science are Mr. Mayer, Trussian, engineer of mines; Mr. Richard, as botauist, a Frenchman, and doctor of medicine and surgery; Mr. Bilesławski, Austrian, and Mr. Gerg, Austrian, both connected with the Imperial Institute of Millinty Geography; Mr. Pouchet, Frenchman, a licentiate in the sciences; Mr. Twiston, topographer; Count Kirski, Aŭstrian, of the Imperial Institute of Geography; Mr. Pouchet, Frenchman, a licentiate in the sciences; Mr. Twiston, and the sciences of New Orleans, photographist, besides several other men of Science.

An expedition for exploration and discovery was uever more judiciously composed and better furnished to secure the most unple results. Some time since the communder of the expedition sent two small steamers and four other boats up to the first entaract, to wait fill the fall of the river, when all the party would at once advance; and probably before the date of this communication they are on their way. In a secending the White Nile, the expedition for Exp pipin posts, heretofore arranged up to the 4th degree of urorth latitude, from whence they will strike for Central Africa and the region beyond the equator. Being provided with extragridinary means and protection, the expedition has a better chance than any before of at last discovering the unysterious sources of the Nile. Capt. PEYTON A.
